

Tony Zhang
Senior Client Engagement Lead
Global CCS Institute

Dr Tony Zhang is the Senior Client Engagement Lead with the Global Carbon Capture and Storage Institute, based in Melbourne, Australia.

Tony leads client engagement activities in Oceania, Hong Kong, Taiwan and South East Asia. He manages operational and strategic relationships with members, clients and strategic partners. His expertise includes carbon capture technology, commercialization, techno-economic feasibility, energy system analysis, emission reduction technology and external relationships.

He has worked on various carbon capture and gas separations projects with major oil and gas companies and power companies. He was a founder of an industry-funded emission reduction technology company which had successfully developed and demonstrated emission reduction technology. He has several patents and published academic papers.

Tony has a PhD in Engineering Science, has completed training in intellectual property management at Monash University and commercialisation at Melbourne Business School.